THE ROLE OF TRUSTED, UNBIASED LONG-FORM JOURNALIST is as important as ever, providing a spotlight for the important stories that define our time and matter most to a new generation.

WITH EACH ISSUE, NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC GOES FURTHER—by telling stories of humankind from an up-close perspective to deepen people's understanding of the world and their role in it.

AS PIONEERS OF THE MEDIA FRONTIER, National Geographic continues to push the magazine into new terrain, creating a more immersive journey and experience for its audience while re-thinking the role it can play for its partners.
HIGHLIGHTS

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC MAGAZINE IS MORE VIBRANT THAN EVER, ADDING NEARLY 1.9 MILLION READERS YEAR-OVER-YEAR FOR 6.6% AUDIENCE GROWTH AND TOTAL REACH OF 30,850,000 ADULTS. BUT MORE IMPORTANT THAT THE SIZE OF OUR AUDIENCE IS ITS QUALITY, WHICH PROVIDES OUR PARTNERS THE OPPORTUNITY TO CONNECT WITH AFFLUENT, EDUCATED, INFLUENTIAL CONSUMERS.

Compared with all MRI-measured magazines, National Geographic ranks #1 in reach of:

- Men
- Generation Z
- Net worth $1,000,000+
- Postgraduate degree
- Top management
- C-suite/top management
- Influentials
- Super Influentials

DID YOU KNOW?

A third of National Geographic magazine readers are millennials. That’s more than 10 million readers, which makes millennials the largest audience segment of our readership.

JANUARY

| Cover: WHY BIRDS MATTER |
To kick off the Year of the Bird, Jonathan Franzen will contribute an essay on why birds matter—to us, to him, to the planet.

Last Ice
By summer 2040, the Arctic Ocean will be almost ice-free and the abundant life it supported will be a memory. National Geographic documents Northern Greenland, what will be the last ice refuge and example of arctic wilderness.

Science of Good & Evil
What makes people especially giving or cruel? Researchers say the way our brains are wired can affect how much empathy we feel for others.

FEBRUARY

| Cover: WE ARE WATCHING YOU |
Technology and our increasing demand for security have put us all under surveillance. Is privacy becoming just a memory?

Hungry Tiger
This story addresses China’s challenge to cope with its growing population and need to feed them as the world’s largest importer of agriculture and the source of a dramatic shift in the global food supply.

Bird Brains
Our story explores some of the most exciting discoveries and the techniques researchers are using in labs and in the wild to explore the avian mind. Despite the similarities in our wiring and mental skills, birds likely don’t experience the world as we do.

MARCH

| Cover: ASTRONAUTS |
Part of the One Strange Rock global tentpole cross-platform event, this story will profile a selection of astronauts and their perceptions of Earth from above. How has their understanding of Earth and life changed?

Brief History of Life
Using living organisms as “ambassadors” to the past, we look at some of the key events in the development of Earth’s biota.

Lakes
The focus of the story is on the impact of drought on lakes around the world, which hold 70% of the world’s fresh water and serve as a barometer of the perils of a warming planet.

Bird Migrations
This story focuses on the phenomenon of bird migrations around the globe, aiming to both evoke wonder at the phenomenon and explain it using recent research advances, which have given scientists a bonanza of new insights over the past decade.

APRIL

| Single Topic Issue: RACE |
Extending the conversation it started with Gender, National Geographic tackles the subject of race with this definitive look from multiple perspectives and across generations. To align with the 50th anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., the issue will open with a photographic essay on Martin Luther King boulevards and an essay that puts the legacy of the civil rights icon into perspective.

MAY

| Cover: GENIUS 2 |
This article will explore the journey of genius from prodigy to legacy, and the variables that contribute to/are influenced by genius.

Muslims In America
Muslim immigrants have been peacefully living in America for over a hundred years, and are deeply embedded in ordinary American communities, often surprisingly conservative ones. Very few Americans get a window on how they live. We hope to open this window.

Bird Origins
Birds are the most diverse vertebrate animals on the planet, with around 10,000 known species ranging from a thumb-size hummingbird to a towering ostrich. But did you know they all share a common ancestor that lived about 64 million years ago?

JUNE

| Cover: PLASTICS |
In half a century, modern plastics have infiltrated every corner of the globe. This story will take us on a journey revealing how plastics have evolved and “taken over the world” environmentally, culturally, and economically.

Lost Colony
Four centuries after their disappearance, the Lost Colonists of Roanoke Island still hold their grip on the American psyche. Now the first archaeological evidence of their fate is coming out of the ground.
July

| Cover: HUMAN PERFORMANCE |
With the World Cup beginning in June 2018, we’ll explore how it is that human bodies are able to achieve ever more astonishing performances by examining the science of endurance and strength.

Latino Power
The story will focus on the rise of Latinos in the U.S., where they have gained political power, how those communities have changed, and what the implications may mean for the broader U.S. as the Latino population continues to grow.

Seabird Crisis
How can we reverse the tide of the shocking state of the world’s seabirds, whose populations have plummeted by almost 70 percent in the past 60 years?

August

| Cover: THE FACE |
The surgery to replace a young woman’s face was breathtaking not only in its complexity, but in its psychic resonance.

Honnold Profile
Profile of climber Alex Honnold, who recently completed the most dangerous rope-free ascent ever—scaling the 3,000-foot wall of El Capitan.

Helmeted Hornbill
Helmeted hornbills are one of the most charismatic birds found in the jungles of southeast Asia and were recently upgraded three categories on the IUCN Red List, from Near Threatened to Critically Endangered. Why? Because their casque is a highly desired replacement for elephant ivory.

September

| Cover: SLEEP |
Why do we sleep? Recent developments in sleep research reveal why.

Smoke Jumpers
Smoke jumpers are the first line of defense against wildfire. Yet the physical and psychological demands of the job are so intense that there are less than 300 smokejumpers in all of the U.S. stationed in just nine bases. For this story, we will first go to smoke jumper training school in Redding, California and then embed with the smokejumper group based in Anchorage, Alaska.

Poisoning Africa
Industrial-scale wildlife trafficking in Africa has a new weapon of choice—poison—and it’s having catastrophic effects on African wildlife. We propose a pan-Africa look at the situation, putting this story that needs to be told on the world’s radar.

October

| Cover: AMERICAN WEST |
More than half of all the land that makes up the 11 Western states is owned by the federal government. Nat Geo explains the strange and confusing state of Western land ownership and how it may change if a growing number of radicalized ranchers have their way.

Paul Walk
The next leg of Paul Salopek’s epic walk across the planet involves a wild traverse of what geographers call “the roof of the world.” It will likely be the first foot journey to bridge Central Asia and South Asia along this daunting, high-altitude route in at least a century.

Sage-Grouse
The greater sage-grouse, a charismatic little bird native only to the American West, is now the most talked-about species in American politics.

November

Lithium
We take a closer look at the mineral that will “power the future” as one of the most desired metals for use in advancing technologies including cell phones, cameras, computers, and electric cars.

Antarctica
This article highlights Paul Nicklen’s 2017 expedition to Antarctica. Coverage will focus on how climate change and how a warmer world is completely transforming life for the wild residents of the White Continent.

December

| Cover: THE BIBLE |
How did The Bible come to be what it is? Ancient manuscripts and scrolls shed new light.

Falcons
Nat Geo examines the current state of falconry, which has moved from subsistence hunting to high-end breeding and racing.

All editorial subject to change.

Terms & Conditions

The following certain terms and conditions governing advertising published in the following National Geographic Properties (the “Properties”) defined as Print and digital editions of the following Properties: National Geographic magazine, National Geographic Traveler magazine, National Geographic Kids magazine, National Geographic Little Kids magazine, National Geographic History magazine, and National Geographic Newsstand Specials. Placement of an order with the Properties shall mean acceptance of all the terms and conditions of this rate card. The terms and conditions of this rate card, together with the order size, issue(s), edition(s), and agreed-upon price reflected on the order, shall constitute the complete terms of the contract between the agency and National Geographic for the advertisement(s). Terms and conditions that alter or conflict with this Rate Card shall not be binding.

1. Orders must specify the issue, edition, ad size, color, and rates

2. All orders must reflect the rates agreed to by the agency or the in-house client and National Geographic prior to the submission of the order, and will be billed accordingly.

3. Disclaimers removing or limiting an agency’s responsibility for payment, or any other terms in conflict with this rate card, are not accepted.

4. Agency waives any defense of sequential or conditional liability to timely payment.

5. Cancellations or changes will not be accepted after the published closing dates for each issue.

6. Any positions specified on orders, except covers, shall be considered requests only and not conditions of purchase.

7. Advertising orders for tobacco or firearms are not accepted.

8. Upon issuance of a new rate card affecting contracts already in force, insertions will be billed at the new rates corresponding to the contracted discount level.

9. Execution of an order is subject to National Geographic's approval of copy, including display, text, and illustration.

10. National Geographic will not be bound by any conditions, printed or otherwise, appearing on orders or copy instructions when such conditions conflict with the requirements set forth in this rate card.

11. Contracts cannot be longer than one year from the date of first insertion, unless specifically agreed to in writing by National Geographic. Rate holders and short rates will be applied when applicable.

12. Rates are subject to change without notice.

13. National Geographic shall not be liable for any failure to print, publish or circulate all or any portion of any issue in which an advertisement is contained if such failure is due to acts of God, strikes, accidents, or other circumstances beyond National Geographic’s control.

14. All advertisements are accepted by National Geographic on the representation of the agency and the advertiser that both are authorized to publish and authorize third parties to publish the entire contents of the advertisement, both in print versions of the Properties and in any other media (including by way of example and not limitation electronic online delivery and microfilm, microfiche, or electronic archival reproductions and revisions of the Properties).

15. The advertiser and the agency, jointly and severally, will indemnify and hold harmless the National Geographic, its officers, agents, and employees against expenses (including legal fees) and losses resulting from the publication of any advertisement including, without limitation, claims or suits for libel, violation of right of privacy, trademarks, copyright infringement, or plagiarism.

16. The advertiser and the agency, jointly and severally, will indemnify and hold harmless the National Geographic, its officers, agents, and employees against expenses (including legal fees) and losses resulting from the publication of any advertisement including, without limitation, claims or suits for libel, violation of right of privacy, trademarks, copyright infringement, or plagiarism.

17. The advertiser and the agency, jointly and severally, will indemnify and hold harmless the National Geographic, its officers, agents, and employees against expenses (including legal fees) and losses resulting from the publication of any advertisement including, without limitation, claims or suits for libel, violation of right of privacy, trademarks, copyright infringement, or plagiarism.

18. The advertiser and the agency, jointly and severally, will indemnify and hold harmless the National Geographic, its officers, agents, and employees against expenses (including legal fees) and losses resulting from the publication of any advertisement including, without limitation, claims or suits for libel, violation of right of privacy, trademarks, copyright infringement, or plagiarism.

Advertising Credit | Collection Policy

This policy is designed to specify procedures for establishing credit and to ensure collection of advertising receivables as well as to maintain a cooperative relationship with our advertising agencies. The policy is effective for all sales personnel, whether employees or representatives, and no exceptions will be made to this policy’s procedures without prior written request and approval. The policy will be enforced on an account by account basis at the discretion of advertising management. All new advertising agencies (including AAAA agencies) must submit a credit application and copy of the proposed advertisement before acceptance of an insertion order. The deadline for such application is two weeks before the closing date of the desired issue.

Late Application

Any credit applications received within two weeks of closing or later will be accepted on cash with order basis only. The only exceptions to this rule are agencies with an AAAA rating. Business will be accepted from such agencies provided management approval is given, under the stipulation that the credit application is submitted before the closing of the next issue. Failure to submit an application by that time will require that all future orders be cash with order until the application is received. Accounts that have established a poor credit history with National Geographic may be barred from any future activity. In such event, payment of all outstanding balances may not be sufficient to reestablish credit. Unless cash is received with the order, credit will not be granted without the prior approval of management and will be reevaluated at each insertion. No sequential liability statements will be accepted on orders. The rate card contract requirement and general information section clearly outlines National Geographic’s policy.
National Geographic continuously redefines the standard of excellence for print and digital journalism. Superior editorial product, world-renowned photography, brand recognition, and consumer trust have earned the magazine the most prestigious awards and recognition in the industry, and established it as a valued leader in the world of news reporting.
